EASA ANNUAL CONFERENCE 2025
FOURTH ANNOUNCEMENT AND CALL FOR PAPERS
THEME:

Learning on the rising tides: Inspirational approaches to education, creativity, harmonious collaboration, and deeper social connections

DATE: 19 - 22 January 2025

VENUE: Sun City Resort, Sun City, North West Province, SOUTH AFRICA

Background information:

We find ourselves navigating the ever-changing tides of knowledge, creativity, and community engagement in the vast and interconnected educational ecosystem. It is within this dynamic environment that our conference, themed "Learning on the rising tides: Inspirational approaches to education, creativity, harmonious collaboration, and deeper social connections", embarks on a comprehensive exploration of educational approaches and paradigms that inspire, challenge, and foster harmonious collaborations and deeper social connections. With a focus on innovative approaches to learning that adapt and flourish amidst the rising tides of societal and technological evolution, we want to delve into the rich tapestry of community engagement and service learning, advocating for an engaged scholarship that bridges communities and higher education institutions in a mutual pursuit of lifelong learning, parental involvement, and effective community-HEI partnerships.

Transcending traditional disciplinary boundaries, our discourse extends into the realm of transdisciplinarity, embracing research, teaching, and learning through innovative pedagogy and educational policy reform to nurture teacher education and higher education landscapes marked by accessibility, quality, efficiency, equity, and success. The multilayered complexity of language in education also commands our attention, exploring the nuances of multilingualism, linguistic diversity, language planning, and policy alongside strategies for teaching reading and facilitating additional language learning.

From the tender years of early childhood education (ECE), we probe into research, teaching, learning, learner support, and qualifications, recognising the foundational significance of these formative years. The digital frontier beckons with discussions on the role of technology in education, from artificial intelligence and the Fourth Industrial Revolution (4IR) to the integration of blended learning methodologies.

Resilience in education emerges as a critical undercurrent, acknowledging the challenges and triumphs of learners, teachers, parents, families, and educational leaders alike. We invite an open, reflective dialogue that not only contemplates the currents of educational change but also propels us forward, riding the crests of innovation, inclusivity and interconnectivity toward a future where education transcends boundaries, nurtures minds, and fosters the collective well-being of our global community.
